

Biodiversity News in Norfolk

No.2 (May 2011)

Cinnabar moth caterpillar (N Nottingham, Norfolk Moths)

Welcome to our May biodiversity e-bulletin

The warm, dry weather has ushered in the recording season a little early, with lots of exciting finds being reported already, including some firsts for the county. Please keep the records coming in!

For those of you who want to learn more about recording or improve your skills, I suggest you look no further than the Norfolk and Norwich Naturalists' Society Workshops for All. Details can be found below.

May also sees International Day for Biological Diversity on the 22nd, the first in the International Decade of Biodiversity.

If you find this bulletin useful or can think of something that would improve it, please let us know. You can use this very simple "Doodle poll" to let us know what you think (it's very quick and straightforward to complete - and doesn't involve any registration, plus your answers can't be viewed by other participants): <http://doodle.com/r5an6c36czehtc6t>

Please do email us at nbis@norfolk.gov.uk if you have any news or events that you would like us to feature in the next or coming issues. And do feel free to forward to anyone you feel would also be interested.

If you'd rather not receive this in future, please email us at nbis@norfolk.gov.uk, and we'll remove you from our circulation list.

Happy recording.
